

Removing Questions from a Test

Last Modified on 03/13/2026 1:58 pm EDT

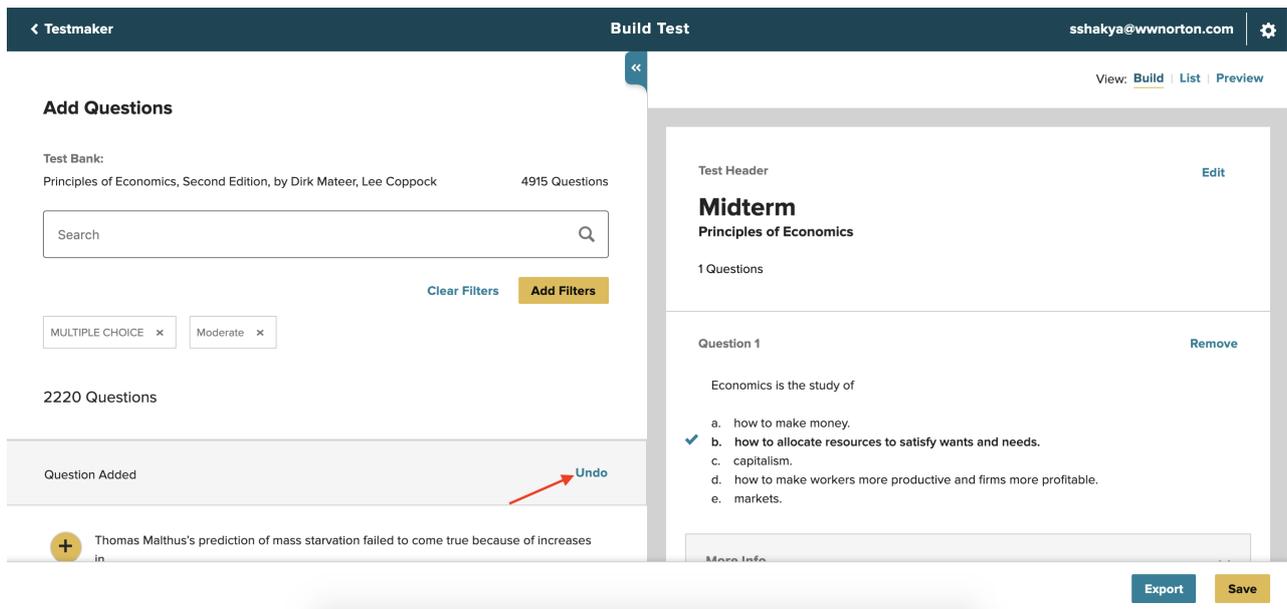

Questions may be removed individually from your test.

1. Click the "Remove" button corresponding to the question you wish to remove. Questions can only be removed in "Build" and "List" views. Removed questions move back into the test bank and will once again become available in search results.

The screenshot shows the Testmaker interface in "Build Test" mode. On the left, the "Add Questions" panel displays a search bar and filter options. A notification at the bottom of this panel says "Question Added" with an "Undo" button. On the right, a preview of the test titled "Midterm Principles of Economics" shows a single question. A red arrow points to the "Remove" button next to the question. The question text is "Economics is the study of" followed by a list of options: a. how to make money, b. how to allocate resources to satisfy wants and needs, c. capitalism, d. how to make workers more productive and firms more profitable, e. markets. The "Remove" button is highlighted with a red arrow.

2. Click the "Undo" button corresponding to the "Question Added" notification. Added question will move back into the test bank and will once again become available in search results.

This screenshot is identical to the previous one, but the red arrow now points to the "Undo" button in the "Question Added" notification at the bottom of the "Add Questions" panel. The "Remove" button in the question preview on the right is no longer highlighted.
